Andover Former town clerk settles for $10,000

By ALISON ALOISIO
and BARBARA ADAMS

Former Andover administrative assistant Rebecca Schachter will receive $10,000 in an out-of-court settlement, stemming from a lawsuit she filed against the town, according to selectman chairman Harold Frazier.

Schachter, who served as the town's administrative assistant for three years, was fired at an illegal meeting by the then Board of Selectmen in September 1992.

She was later fired legally at a December, 1992 hearing. Attorney Ronald Lebel, the hearing examiner, said selectmen had just cause to fire her because she neglected to keep up with the minutes of their meetings.

Schachter subsequently filed a suit, seeking legal fees, state pension reimbursement, and damages.

The settlement is considerably less than what had been requested, which was somewhere about a large five or six figures, Frazier said.

He said selectmen were afraid a lawsuit could have amounted to as much as $50,000.

The town had no liability insurance over the case. Such insurance was later taken out.

The town was represented by Attorney Thomas Goss of Kennebunk. Schachter and Schachter had previously been paid about $2,000 each per year.

Former board chairman claims she was libeled by ex-sub's letter

By ALISON ALOISIO

Former SAD44 School Board chairman Margaret Hand claimed Monday that accusations made against her by former substitute teacher and track coach Ivan Roberts were libelous.

"I'm really bitter about this. I don't like being set up by anybody," Hand said.

At the April 10 board meeting, Roberts read aloud a letter addressed to the board complaining that he had been "denied reinstatement without a reason after working five years at SAD44."

Roberts said that when he asked another board member why the board member had voted against reinstatement, he was told by the director that the district's attorney had advised against talking with Roberts.

"I'm really bitter about this."

MARGARET HAND

Roberts questioned why money was spent on the attorney when no grievance had been filed in the matter.

In a three-page memo released Monday, Supt. Ronald Jenkins outlined the sequence of events involving his office and the board.

"The reason the attorney was contacted in the first place was to properly answer whether or not a person previously employed as a substitute teacher had any employment rights in subsequent years. Mr. Roberts had maintained that he did and I felt that he did not. This conflict of opinion required resolution. To resolve grievances is clearly not the only reason we seek legal advice," Jenkins said in part of the memo.

Roberts also stated in the letter that he was in a contract awarded to a local contractor for work on a proposed Telstar track had not been followed.

He said he attended a meeting of the track boosters club, also attended by Hand, at which it was discussed whether stumps from trees cut on the site could be buried.

He said when Hand was asked about getting advice from an at-

Developers ask state to take parkway by eminent domain

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The developers of Bethel Station are now asking the Maine Department of Transportation to use the state's power of eminent domain to take the rights of way necessary for the project's riverside parkway.

This represents a change from the developers' initial plan, to purchase the parcels involved and then deed the necessary land to MDOT.

Merrill said the change of tactics was necessitated by the developers' inability to successfully negotiate acceptable deals with the landowners in question: Western Maine Supply Company, Priscilla Currier and Oxford West Telephone Company.

Bob Lowell of Western Maine declined to comment on the negotiations, other than to say that his company was still willing to sell the land in question.

Oxford West general manager Bob Jamieson said Tuesday he was unaware of Merrill's plan to obtain land through eminent domain. He said his company was interested in trading its property for a piece of land near the airport.

"Heinie asked me to have our land appraised. We did that, and I sent him a copy last Friday. I told him our board could consider it at their meeting this Friday, but I haven't heard anything," he said.

Jamieson added he didn't want to hold up the Bethel Station project, but Oxford West couldn't simply "give the land away."

No decision yet

The state transportation agency has made no decision yet on the request, according to Ray Quimby, MDOT chief of right of way.

Quimby said a decision is likely soon after Deputy Commissioner Alden Small returns to the office

Bethel board eases key escrow provision

By MICHAEL DANIELS

In an effort to help move the Bethel Station project along, the Bethel Board of Selectmen agreed last week to forego approximately $640,000 in escrow money for the construction of the parkway -- on the condition that the developers, Victoria Associates, obtain a legally enforceable document from the Maine Department of Transportation saying that MDOT will be responsible for the cost of constructing the new road.

But the selectmen refused to relax the conditions on nearly $800,000 worth of escrow required for work on Cross and Lincoln streets.

The escrow terms were agreed to last month by the developers and the selectmen. The developers must put up the agreed-upon escrow before the selectmen will close on the 6.2 acre parcel of town-owned land that lies near the center of the development.

Merrill last week described April 27 as the "drop-dead date" for the deal, but the deadline clearly will not be met -- even with the selectmen's concession on the parkway escrow.

The selectmen said they would also consider deeding over the rear part of the parcel, in exchange for work already completed on the town garage and salt/sand shed. That would allow the developers to give MDOT right of way over at least that parcel.

But further concessions appear unlikely. "It seems to me we continually slide back and find ourselves in a weaker position as far as the sale of that land is concerned," said selectman Bob Chadbourne.

Condo plans revived in Newry

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Barker Brook Condominium Association plans to submit an application to the Newry Planning Board for developing 33 new units on the site.

The development, adjacent to Combs Village off the Sunday River Road, originally received a permit in 1988 to construct 40 units, according to association member Robert Demond. Demond presented information to the board as part of a pre-application conference at last week's regular meeting.

Only seven units have been constructed so far. Demond said the original developer had gone into bankruptcy. The association purchased the property, and now wants to develop it.

Since the property is less than 20 acres, it is considered a minor subdivision. The association wants to change the subdivision plan, to relocate the new units farther away from cutting done along a power line several years ago by Central Maine Power Co.

Demond told the board the association would likely phase the development, with 10 units in two buildings to be constructed first, and the rest later.

"We plan to sell them as vacation condos," Demond said. He said the condominiums would not be a burden on municipal services, as the association contracts privately for waste disposal and road maintenance.

The board told Demond he would need to apply again for a minor subdivision, due to the planned changes. He was also told a new site plan would have to be submitted, because under the old ordinance it expired after two years.

The board also recommended that Demond have an updated traffic study done. Access to the property is through Combs Village.

Demond said the development plan may include widening the development's road, which passes

Charges expected in Gilead domestic

By ALISON ALOISIO

George Sanford of Gilead will be arraigned in district court in Rumford in June, on charges of terrorizing and assaulting his wife and son with a rifle. He is currently out on bail.

Sanford's wife, Beverly, called the Oxford County Sheriff's dispatch office Thursday evening at 6 p.m., saying he had hit their 13-year-old son with a rifle, according to detective Jim Mielon.

Sanford then fled into woods near his Northwest Bethel Road home, still carrying the rifle. His son followed him initially, but then returned to the residence.

Beverly Sanford told police she did not know if her husband had ammunition for the gun.

Mielon and two sheriff's deputies responded to the call and tried to locate Sanford.

"I kept calling to him. I had dealt with him before and knew the family," Mielon said.

Mielon said at one point Sanford came out of the woods. But after repeated commands to drop the rifle, he turned and fled back into the woods.

"He displayed the rifle in a dangerous manner," Mielon said, but no shots were fired.

Mielon and deputy Chris Wainwright, along with wardens Don Gray and Norm Lewis, finally chased Sanford down and apprehended him. Mielon said they then discovered the rifle was not loaded.

Sanford's wife, two children, and a grandchild were taken to the Bethel Rescue Barn where they were examined by unit volunteers. They did not require treatment. Mielon said Sanford assaulted his son with the rifle butt, and his wife with the barrel.

Bethel police chief Dale Bellman provided backup at the time of the incident. A state police canine unit was also called to the scene, but Sanford was apprehended before the dog arrived.

Mielon said the district attorney has added the charge of criminal threatening (of the deputies and wardens) with a dangerous weapon to the original charges.

Mielon also said Sanford is barred from returning to his residence, and cannot have any contact with his wife and son.

CIVIL WAR VETERANS' CEMETERY WILL BE MAINTAINED

Because of the efforts of Bethel resident Mona Lowe, the Capen Hill Cemetery on the Middle Intervale Road will be fixed up and maintained by the town. The site had become overgrown with trees and brush, and gravestones were knocked over. Lowe found in state law that towns are required to maintain any cemetery in which war veterans are buried. She said three are buried at Capen Hill -- John Abbott, Stephen Abbott, and John Hastings. Bethel Historical Society director Stan Howe said the two Abbotts were likely Civil War soldiers. Lowe said town crews found John Abbott's buried stone, along with six or seven others, on Friday. Lowe has been placing American flags at the cemetery, on behalf of the Mundt-Allen Legion Post, since 1980. Here, she stands near the grave of Stephen Abbott.

Your right to say it

"The Citizen welcomes your letters." So says the little box we run from time to time on this page -- and so we do.

One essential function of the newspaper is to provide a forum for as broad a spectrum of public opinion as possible. We don't publish libelous letters, nor letters which advocate criminal activity, nor letters that are needlessly hurtful to others -- but beyond that this space is open pretty much to all views, including those that may be currently unfashionable, or those we may personally regard as delusional and illogical.

In fact, the more strongly we disagree with a letter, the more unpopular we may think it might prove, then the more incumbent it is upon us to get the letter into the newspaper.

That's what the First Amendment is all about.

Enough said.

THE MILITIA NEEDS YOU

To the Editor:

In light of current events, I have been thinking about the impact that militias have had in our history, on present day situations, and how they will affect our future.

The Second Amendment states: "A well regulated militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

The fact that our "founding fathers" include the militia in the Second Amendment when they had already provided for the militia twice in the Constitution, stresses the urgent necessity for militias today.

A majority of Americans believe our forefathers wanted us to have the right to keep and bear arms for the purpose of self defense, hunting and the protection of personal property. This was not the primary reason for the enactment of the Second Amendment. Thomas Jefferson explained that "The strongest reason for the people to retain the right to keep and bear arms is, as a last resort, to protect themselves against tyranny in government."

Militias are forming rapidly all over the United States. Wake up America.

GREAT PATRIOTS' DAY KICK-OFF

To the Editor:

As chairman of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee, I am writing to commend Jim Rose for his fine Patriots' Day performance on April 19 at the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. This event was the first official activity of the committee and raised some donations for next year's events.

Jim did a superb job of portraying some of the drama at Lexington and Concord 229 years ago this year. On behalf of the committee, I wish to express my gratitude for his dedication and enthusiasm.

THANKS, AHHS VOLUNTEERS

To the Editor:

April 23-24 is National Volunteer Week, and I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the people I believe are the most dedicated volunteers in our community, the volunteers of Androscoggin Home Health Hospice.

Most people know that hospice provides a very special kind of care for terminally ill persons and their families, but it's less known that if it were not for volunteers, our hospice could not function.

Hospice care is provided through an interdisciplinary, medically-trained team. This team approach to care for dying persons typically includes a physician, a nurse, a counselor, a member of the clergy, and a home health aide.

Nationally, about 100,000 people serve as hospice volunteers, and last year they gave well over five million hours of their precious time to serve terminally ill patients and families.

Locally, 100 persons donated their service to our community hospice during the year.

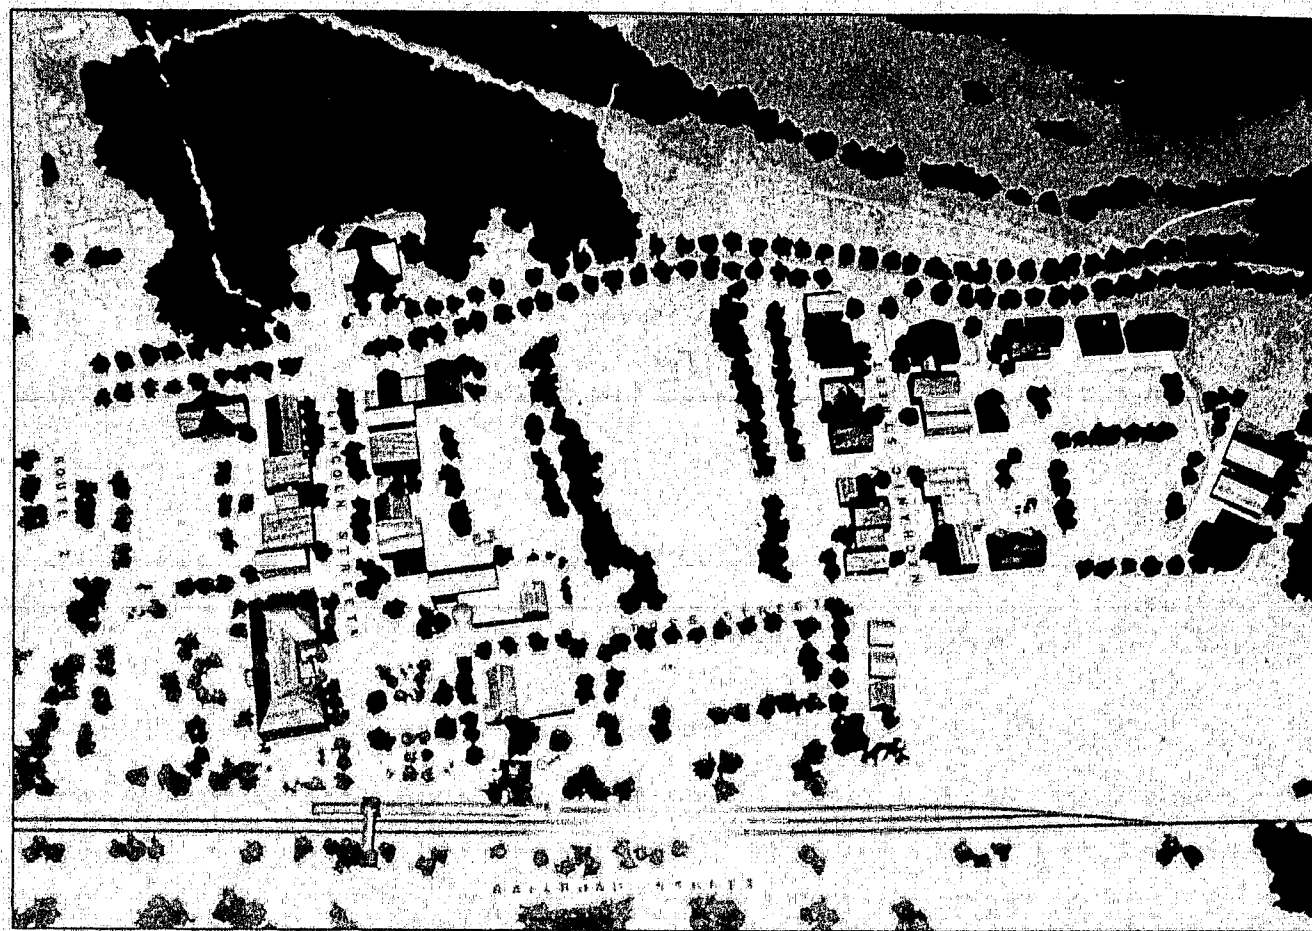

In a number of ways, volunteering for hospice differs from other community work. For instance, hospice patient-care volunteers are required to undergo at least 30 hours of standardized training before being allowed to work directly with a patient or family.

No task is too big or too small for our volunteers, but often the most important thing they can do is just "be there" for patients -- to reassure them they are not alone, to hold a hand, to offer a smile, or to just listen. It is not easy work, but the personal rewards are enormous. The strength and courage of patients provide a constant source of inspiration, and volunteers usually feel they gain more than they have been able to give.

Our hospice is growing as more and more persons seek our help. For this reason, we have a constant need for new volunteers. If you would like to learn more about hospice volunteering, I invite you to call us at 1-800-482-7412.

In the meantime, we should all be grateful to the volunteers of Androscoggin Home Health Services Hospice for the wealth of time and compassion they give for the betterment of our community.

BETHEL STATION PARKWAY, is the curved, tree-lined roadway in the upper third of this model. It will run between Route 25 (right) and Route 2 (left). Project developers, at a standstill in their negotiations with current landowners, are now asking the Maine Department of Transportation to use its powers of eminent domain to take the land needed for the new road.

this week.

Eminent domain takings are the normal way MDOT proceeds in such projects, Quimby said.

If the state were to go that route, he said, the project would be delayed for three or four months by the required hearing and negotiations with landowners.

That would set the beginning of the work back to September, which may be too late to complete the project this construction season.

The work would probably take another three or four months to complete, according to Charles Valley, an assistant design engineer for MDOT.

Valley also noted that MDOT does not do construction work during the winter.

Hotel work also delayed

The various delays have also made it unlikely that the large hotel planned for Bethel Station will be completed by the beginning of the coming ski season.

Unless the process speeds up, Merrill said, "We're going to be in tough straits to get that hotel occupied by December."

By the end of May the developers will have invested $5 million in the project, according to Merrill. That figure includes the cost of constructing the new town garage and silt/sand shed, the Casablanca Building and train station, as well as planning, architectural and legal fees.

He said the construction delays have not jeopardized the overall financial viability of the project.

Libel

money on the matter, she told the committee it would cost too much.

"An athletic field made into a dump was not important enough to get an attorney involved," Roberts wrote.

He said Hand promised the committee that bulldozing of the site would not continue until she met with the committee again. But, he said, the next day "the rest of the stumps" were covered up.

On that issue, Jenkins wrote, "The issues with the track committee are confusing. There were concerns with stumps allegedly being buried where they were not supposed to be."

Jenkins said his office investigated, and decided that it could not be proven there were stumps where they did not belong. He said the district still has a signed contract for the project, and could sue the contractor at a later date if there were violations. He said the Building and Grounds committee was also involved in the process. Jenkins added, "So far, we have felt that we got a great deal of work for very little money."

Jenkins also said he spoke with the district's attorney briefly and determined that at that time there was no need for legal services.

At Monday night's meeting, Hand was also critical of chairman Merton Brown's handling of the situation. Brown had been elected chair (defeating Hand) about ten minutes prior to the reading of the letter.

"I would ask the chair to review letters before allowing them to be read. If that had happened, the chair would know that most of this is false," Hand said.

Brown replied, "I wasn't sure if he would read it. We also know that the control we have over what citizens say at public meetings is limited."

Hand retorted, "Not if it's libelous. And this is libelous. My attorney has the letter. If it was true, I'd take the heat, but it's not true."

Hand said Roberts would get a letter about the incident from her lawyer.

Brown said that Jenkins' memo "sets the record straight."

Other business

The board also discussed the progress of its work on the FY'96 budget. The proposal from the administration would increase the expenditure budget by 8.58 percent.

Brown said that judging by the general reaction of the board so far, the administrative budget plan is "on shaky ground."

He said the area of administration was of most concern to directors.

There are no proposals to cut administrators at this time. At a previous budget workshop, directors heard Telstar assistant principal/athletic director Carroll Higgins described his job responsibilities.

Principal Ted Davis has been asked to discuss his responsibilities at the next workshop, slated for May 3.

Jenkins emphasized he would not recommend administrative cuts, although he would try to make them work if that was the board's ultimate decision.

Hand proposed the board direct the administration to come back with cuts to bring the increase down to 6 percent, leaving the decision on where the cuts would come with administrators.

The board also unanimously approved a proposed NOVA funding formula change that would save the district money in paying for vocational education, beginning in FY'97. The change must also be approved by other NOVA-member school boards.

On a related topic, Davis informed the board that a new hospitality program to be offered through NOVA would use the Summit Hotel at Sunday River Skiway as its "lab room."

The board also approved overnight trips to Boston for the Andover sixth grade and the CPS fifth grade.

New Greenwood director Brad Payne was sworn into office.

over Barker Brook. As a result, he must also apply for approval through shoreline zoning.

Code Enforcement Officer Norm Putnam said a Department of Environmental Protection permit (following permit-by-rule guidelines) would be required as well, because the soil would be disturbed within 100 feet of the brook. Demand is scheduled to submit an application at the May 17 board meeting. He said there is no set schedule to start construction, but the association would like to begin this summer.

Conservation week celebrates the living waters

Fresh, clean water is the lifeblood of the universe, and individuals have a stewardship responsibility to assure a continuing adequate supply. To emphasize this point, the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District is encouraging interested individuals and organizations to join with the National Association of Conservation Districts in celebrating the annual Soil and Water Stewardship observance, April 30 to May 7. This year's theme is "The Living Waters."

The conservation district, which works throughout the year to encourage soil and water conservation practices, is providing literature and information assistance to local churches, civic organizations, and schools interested in furthering good water conservation practices.

The Oxford County and Androscoggin Valley Soil and Water Conservation districts are the joint recipients of an information and education grant which supports a unique water pollution prevention initiative in the Little Androscoggin River Watershed. Some projects within this grant include: designing of a Water Quality Placemat to be distributed to local restaurants, providing an Agricultural Checklist to determine activities which impact water quality, and involving schools in learning activities such as watershed sign making, storm drain stenciling, monitoring activities, and water quality projects. Other activities will include workshops targeted for teachers, foresters, loggers, contractors, woodland owners, camp road owners and presentations to community groups.

Roger Smedberg, chairperson of the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District, said water is one of our natural resources that we most often take for granted. "Where water is available, it is too common to consider where it is not, it is the only thing that matters," He noted that it is often not until the full impact of past errors comes to view that we are reminded that the living waters are themselves dependent upon how well we as individuals care for our environment.

The modern conservation practices of farmers and ranchers go a long way toward protecting the quality of public waters that run from their land, but responsibility for water quality also rests with suburban and urban dwellers. On a per-acre basis, it has been estimated that 10 times more fertilizer and pesticide are applied to suburban lawns and gardens than is applied to farm fields. Keeping the living waters clean and healthy today is a challenge for everyone who manages land everywhere.

A national effort is underway to help people understand that they are part of a watershed, which can be an area of small streams or a larger river basin.

The fact is whatever any of us do within our watershed affects the quality of water for others who may live downstream.

THIS WEEK AT THE
Moses Mason House

As part of Grange Week, April 23-29, the Bethel Historical Society is sponsoring a Grange exhibit with memorabilia relating to the Order from its earliest days in Maine (1870s) to the present. April 1995 marks the 33rd anniversary of Grange Week, which is celebrated in 4,000 Grange communities nationwide.

Founded in 1867, the Grange was the first fraternal farm organization in the country and the first to admit women on an equal basis. Today, it is also recognized as America's number one rural family organization with over 300,000 members in 37 states.

Bethel's two Granges, Alder River Grange 145 in East Bethel and Pleasant Valley Grange 136 in West Bethel, continue to serve the community as they have since their organization in the 1870s.

Anyone wishing to see the exhibit is encouraged to visit the Dr. Moses Mason House, Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, May 4, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House. This program will feature a history of the Oxford County Fair by Richard Deans of Hebron. This year marks the 150th anniversary of the fair's existence. Anyone interested in attending the meeting is cordially invited to do so.

Many thanks are extended to Jim Rose for his outstanding Patriot's Day performance on April 19 at the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room to benefit the Bethel Bicentennial.

Airport authority study slated

BETHEL--Selectmen last week authorized Airport Advisory Committee chairman Peter Kailey to study establishing an airport authority for the Bethel Airport. The autonomous group would control the facility's budget and growth. Selectman John Thurston said he favored such a plan, saying selectmen don't have the time for the responsibility.

Scholarship vote unlawful

WOODSTOCK--Town officials learned this week that a vote at the annual Town Meeting to distribute funds that have accumulated in the Woodstock Students Scholarship Fund violated state law. An article asked voters to raise and appropriate $1,000 for the fund. But townspeople amended the article to also divide about $2,000 not yet distributed from the fund among current college students. A Maine Municipal Association legal opinion said articles must be worded to give voters notice of the meeting's business, and any action beyond that scope is unlawful. Town manager Vern Maxfield said the article will be revoked at a special Town Meeting later this year.

Woodstock road still on closing list

WOODSTOCK--Selectmen last week refused to remove a portion of Shagg Pond Road from a list of winter road closings until a public hearing on the issue is held May 2. Townspeople voted at the March Town Meeting to have selectmen review road closings, in keeping with state law that requires the procedure every one to 10 years. Several roads in town have not been plowed for a number of years, but were not technically closed as the review had not been done within the past 10 years. Nancy Hayward of Casco requested the eight-tenths of a mile Shagg Pond section be exempt because Gerald and Barbara Buckley wish to live there year-round in a trailer. Selectmen denied the request, saying they felt residents must first be allowed to comment at the hearing.

Train ignites brush fires

WOODSTOCK--Firefighters from Woodstock and Greenwood battled a three-mile string of brush fires along the right of way of the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railroad last Tuesday afternoon. Woodstock fire chief William Seames said 10 separate blazes were ignited by a freight train. Fireman Alan Seames of Greenwood said the woods are drier than usual for this time of year, due to the lack of snow melt. The fires were contained before they could spread.

Aplastic anemia not environmental RUMFORD--A high rate of aplastic anemia, indicated by a study several years ago in this area, was not caused by environmental factors such as poor air quality. Those were the findings of a follow-up study done by the Maine Health Care Finance Commission. Aplastic anemia is a persistent to therapy and characterized by a lack of regeneration of red blood cells. The follow-up study focused on finding the cause of the disease in individual cases. "Most of the (recorded instances) were secondary to cancer, chemotherapy, or were anemia of chronic disease," the report stated.

County dispatch center to expand?

PARIS--Oxford County Commissioners voted last week to pay $2,500 to hire an architectural firm to conduct a cost analysis for a new communication center for the Oxford County Sheriff's Department. The study will be conducted by SMRT, an architectural and engineering firm. The company will investigate the feasibility of two options for the dispatch center: adding to the front of the existing center at the county jail, or renovating the old jail in the county courthouse. Sheriff Skip Herrick said the current location of the center is too small, and will be particularly inadequate if it is tabbed as a public safety alert point with the new enhanced 9-1-1 emergency calling system. At the same meeting, commissioners signed an agreement with Stoneham Rescue Service to provide service to Albany and Mason Townships.

Maine products go QVC

AUGUSTA--Maine products will be showcased and sold on the QVC television shopping network during a live telecast from Maine tentatively scheduled for Sept. 1995. QVC buyers will be at the Cumberland County Civic Center May 23 and 24 to select 12 to 20 Maine-made items. The products must fall into the categories of housewares and home furnishings, automotive, gourmet foods, jewelry, apparel, and health/fitness/beauty products and accessories. Maine businesses interested in having their products considered should call Maine Products Marketing Program (207-287-3153).

UMO professor makes stronger wood

ORONO--A University of Maine professor has come up with a way to make wood stronger than steel, opening potential new markets for Maine timbers. The new heavy-construction material is created by applying a thin layer of synthetic material called Fiber Reinforced Plastic, or FRP, on the portion of low-grade wood that receives the most stress. Civil engineering professor Habib Dagher said a 12-inch hemlock beam becomes 50 percent stronger with the addition of an FRP layer thinner than a deck of playing cards. Fiber-wood requires no painting and less maintenance than steel.

Skiers raise money for diabetes

AUGUSTA--Over 100 skiers raised $22,000 for the American Diabetes Association on April 19. The proceeds will benefit education programs and services for the 60,000 Maine people with diabetes. Funds will also go to support lifesaving research projects. Rep. Al Barth of Bethel was the top individual fundraiser for the day with $2,102.

Man killed by barrel top

LANCASTER, N.H.--Town recycling coordinator Frank Hoganson, 38, was killed April 14 when he was struck by the top of a barrel he was cutting open with an acetylene torch. According to the town's police chief, Ed Samson, the barrel contained waste oil from a local car dealer, and had apparently built up enough vapors to cause an explosion. He said barrels accepted at the center are monitored to determine what they contain, and are vented before being cut. Although Hoganson had routinely cut openings in the tops of old barrels, town manager Pam Andrade said it was not town policy to be opening barrels with a torch. The center will no longer accept barrels unless the ends are cut off and the barrels flattened.

Scott Pike wins countersuit

SOUTH PARIS--An Oxford County jury ruled 8-0 for Scott Pike this month on an assault complaint filed by Raymond Chapman. Two additional counts against Pike, of negligent infliction of emotional distress and intentional infliction of emotional distress, were dismissed by the court at the conclusion of the trial. On a earlier claim of slander, brought by Pike against Chapman, the jury verdict was unanimously in Chapman's favor (as was reported here April 12).

Snowboarders buffing their image?

CRESTED BUTTE, Colo.--Does it signal a thaw in relations between skiers and snowboarders? Maybe not, but at least two snowboarders joined a band of skiers who streaked naked down this mountain last week. The resort was trying to play down what has become an annual event. This year it refused to permit naked skiers on lifts, in warming rooms, and on the sun decks. Resort spokeswoman Gina Kroft said the restrictions didn't stop a couple of dozen skiers from showing up. They stripped their clothes off after riding the lift, and either stuck them in a backpack or gave them to friends.

From the Bethel Police log:

Man loses pants, car

On April 21 at 11:05 p.m., a Mexico resident reported his pants and keys to his vehicle had been taken from a Bethel residence. He said he had been sleeping, and when he got up his pants and keys were gone. He stated that a Rumford resident had taken the vehicle. He said he felt he had had too much to drive, and the Rumford resident wanted to go home. Police contacted Oxford County dispatch and advised the vehicle was a gray Grand Am, and might be headed toward Rumford. Dispatch later advised police the subject had contacted the complainant and was headed back to Bethel with the vehicle. The complainant said he did not want to press charges, and only wanted his vehicle back. The vehicle was returned. Dispatch then advised there was a warrant for the subject, Peter Cole. When the vehicle returned, Cole was advised there was a warrant form on him, and he was arrested. He was transported to South Paris.

Sunday, April 23

At 2:45 p.m., a Grover Hill Road resident reported a woman was riding her horse in front of his residence for the sole purpose of looking into his windows to see what he was doing. He demanded that she be told to stop. Police tried to explain to the complainant that Grover Hill is a public way, and there was no law restricting her from riding her horse on the road as much as she wanted. Tracks showed the horse was on the road and did not infringe on the complainant's property. The complainant was very displeased with the explanation, and stated this was not over.

Saturday, April 22

At 3:24 p.m., a Flat Road resident reported a vehicle acting suspiciously in the West Bethel area. It was apparently going house to house, stopping at some and not others. While enroute, police observed and stopped the vehicle on Route 2 adjacent to Bethel Auto Sales. The operator explained he was going to occupied homes and showing vacuum cleaners. The subject had over $10,000 worth of equipment and paperwork in the vehicle. Police explained to him why he had been stopped, and he departed satisfied with the explanation.

At 6:38 p.m., a Mechanic Street resident reported a man had left a baseball cap and wedding band at another Bethel residence. She requested police contact him and let him know the police now have the items. He was advised the items were at the police department. The subject stated he did not know when he could pick them up, as he did not have a vehicle. Police advised they would keep the items until he was able to get to Bethel.

Friday, April 21

At 12:09 a.m., a Main Street resident reported loud music at the Sudbury Inn. Police spoke to the manager, advising him the music was very loud and needed to be turned down. The manager agreed to turn it down or stop it for the night. The complainant came out of his house with a sound meter in his hand and stated the reading showed the music was too loud. Police advised him that more than one reading would have to be taken. Police will check with the code enforcement officer on the readings.

At 10:10 a.m., a public works employee reported he had received a message that juveniles were knocking down gravestones on the Annis Road. Police planned to add more patrol to the area. Police also noted that under state law, criminal trespass in a cemetery does not require a warning. Anyone found in a cemetery after dark is presumed to be trespassing.

At 4:30 p.m., extra patrol was requested at the U.S. Forest Service due to the bombing in Oklahoma City.

At 7:45 p.m., a Bethel resident reported two women had stolen checks from his residence. He said he had spoken to both parties, and they stated they would pay him for the checks cashed. He felt he was not going to get the money owed him. The complainant said one subject had made good on one check for $100, which had been cashed in March. Checks cashed by the other subject totaled $775. The complainant also said when he spoke to both parties, they stated they were intoxicated when they stole the checks. Police planned to send a report to the District Attorney's office for charges.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

DUAL OF THE NEWELLS

(LEFT)--Gould Academy baseball's home opener was truly a father and son affair last Saturday. Not only was it parents' weekend, but Gould alumnus and Kents Hill School baseball coach Alec Newell '88 (left) went head to head against his father, Gould baseball coach Charlie Newell '62. Apparently the older Newell taught his son a little too well -- Kents Hill blasted Gould 19-3.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

At their meeting April 20, the Unit elected a new slate of officers, completed plans for a tea on April 30 and installation on May 4. They also planned for another supper and dance for May 9, reported on the last one, selected delegates to Department Convention in June, and reported on other recent activities.

The newly elected officers are: President, Martha Stowell; 1st V.P., Leah Deegan; 2nd V.P., Evanna Davis; Secretary, Olive Risko; Treasurer, Vera Cross; Chaplain, Bertha Walker; Historian, Noreen Russo; Sergeant at Arms, Sylvia Dunham. There will be a joint installation with the Post at 7 p.m. on May 4, with refreshments of strawberry shortcake afterward.

The tea on April 30 is meant as a celebration of the 75 years of the American Legion Auxiliary and to honor any who have been members all that time. All other Posts and Units in Oxford County have been invited to attend, and the Department Historian and other dignitaries intend to be present.

Chicken pie will again be served for the supper on May 9, and the Richard Felt band will be there for entertainment and dancing. At the previous one on April 11, there was a good attendance and $345 was cleared to add to the fund for the generator. The proceeds on May 9 will be to benefit member Noreen Russo, who has been ill much of the last two years and is at this time in Lahey Clinic.

Chosen as delegates to Department Convention in June were Martha Stowell, Olive Risko, Vera Cross and Leah Deegan. Alternates are Evanna Davis, Kathleen McAllister, Zylpha Emmons and Mary Lyon.

It was reported that the Easter Basket raffle was won by Bertha Walker and netted $254 for the Locke-Mills church. A donation of $25 has been made to the Multiple Sclerosis association.

At the Oxford County Council installation on May 18, Kathleen McAllister became the president for the coming year and Olive Risko is again the treasurer. Noreen Russo, elected as 2nd V.P., was not able to attend the installation. Past Department President and 75-year member Fannie Cummings, Mary Lyon and Vera Cross accompanied the above to the ceremonies held at the Dixfield Post Home.

WMMC BANQUET

Western Maine Management Club Banquet will be April 29 at Shorelands Restaurant, Harrison. Social Hour will be from 6 to 7 p.m. with dinner at 7. There will be dancing following the dinner until 11. The meal will be $20 per person and choices are prime rib or baked stuffed haddock.

Reservations for the banquet are being taken by Judi Foster of Gilbert Mfg. in Locke Mills, 875-2301. Please phone no later than 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 25.

The special town meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 26, at 7 p.m. Topics to be voted on include the transfer station maintenance budget, the social services budget, an equipment request by the fire department, and a proposed budget for software and computer training.

The community yard and craft sale is scheduled to be held on June 17 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Spaces will be available for rent on the town common. If you prefer to hold a sale at your home instead of hauling your wares to the common then take advantage of the advertising available through the community yard sale map. A map of the area noting addresses of residents holding yard sales to coincide with the community yard and craft sale will be posted at local businesses prior to the sale date. A donation of $5 will ensure your address will be listed on the map. Those that wish to reserve a space on the common or add their address to the map of local yard sales may do so by contacting Nancy Wardwell at 392-2131 or calling the town office at 392-3302. Spaces on the common may be reserved by paying $10. Tables will also be available for rent for $5 each. Payment for the reserved spaces, tables and map listing must be made prior to June 1. All proceeds to benefit the "Olde Home Days" Committee Fund.

Olde Home Days are scheduled for the first weekend in August, Aug. 4-6. The theme for this year's celebration will be "The Magic of Books" to coincide with the public library's 200th anniversary. To entice more entries for the parade, cash prizes will be awarded to the winners in the float category, first place will win $100, second place will receive $50 and third place will receive $25. Registration forms will be available soon and should be returned to the committee by Aug. 4. Gather some friends, brainstorm the theme, and plan on participating in the parade with a float entry.

On April 10, Evelyn Bell entertained the East Andover Community Club with Dolly Jones as co-hostess. Eleven members and one guest were present. Discussion was held regarding the community picnic to be held Aug. 27 at the Howard/Schneider Grove, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Barbara Meisner and Violet Swain will be co-chairpersons. There will be contests, games, awards and a picnic for anyone living, or who lived, in East Andover and their families. Each family is asked to bring place settings for each person, contribute either a hot dish or salad to share, and food for their own family. The club will furnish the dessert. Soft drinks and ice cream will be available. Further plans will be made at the May 8 meeting. Committees will be appointed. Marge Stinson won the door prize. Easter gifts were given to secret pals.

Sympathy is extended to Lila Farrington in the loss of her husband, Everett, 85, who died on Easter. The Farringtons resided in East Andover until 1980 when they moved to Swain Brook Apartments in Rumford. He was at the Dixfield Health Center for seven years. He was survived by six daughters and two sons. A daughter, Gloria, died in 1948 at the age of 8. They celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary in December 1994.

Henry Farrington, 89, Rochester, N.H., died April 20. He and his wife Irene lived in East Andover many years and raised a large family. His only brother, Everett, died April 16. Robert Dorey, East Andover, was not an adopted son of Everett Farrington.

Easter Sunday has come and gone, Val and Caroline Greene were here for a few days and have returned home, the sunshine comes in and out of the clouds, and the temperature goes up and down. The psalmist, David, noticed the constant change and commented that the Lord preserves our going out and our coming in forever. It is nice to know that some things don't change.

Owen and Debbie Brown invited me to an Easter supper. As usual, the food was good and so was the hospitality. Those present besides the host and hostess and yours truly were Allan Brown, Jake Swick, Kim Brown, Jim and Beatrice Brown, Arlene Brown and Marie Brown. Tracy Swick was working but joined us later. I enjoy seeing all their fish tanks full of fish. How they manage it is beyond me. I find it difficult at times to maintain two. I had just one but Ralph brought me down a small five-gallon one to use as a quarantine tank for sick fish. Right now it contains a belligerent gourami who was chasing all the fish in the larger community tank; but it will be a short respite for the other fish because I am getting a couple of unwanted goldfish (I've stopped taking in stray cats and have gone to stray fish) and goldfish don't need a heated tank as gouramis do.

Charlotte Cole and her niece Valerie Cole were in Canton Thursday where Charlotte entertained at a senior citizen dinner. She also sang Happy Birthday to Valerie, who was celebrating her birthday.

Gerry Shimamura was in Concord, N.H., Monday and Tuesday and I took care of her dogs, Bishop and Hawlette. I went with her Wednesday to Norway where she had a doctor's appointment. Husband Joe, son Jody and grandson Ben should be back home from Japan by the time you read this. They picked a great time to go what with all the gas attacks going on there, but they are fine according to the latest telephone report.

Donna Downs reports that Ted is doing fine physically following his stroke, but that his memory and judgment is not good. It bothers her because he doesn't remember much of the immediate past but wants to know where his mother, who died many years ago, is. She said that he seemed to accept her as his wife but she wasn't sure if he really remembered or it's just that he accepts what he's been told. I'm sure he remembers at times but maybe not all the time. Donna said she had gone back to work, as she can't do as much for him as the nurses can any more.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hadfield of Fairhaven, Mass., were at their home on Branch Road over the holiday weekend.

Weekend visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lowell Sr.'s were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ennes of Arlington, Vt., and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Reed of Bennington, Vt.

Ras and Karlene Bachelder had their granddaughter Michelle and her husband Paul Josephson of Yarmouth and two friends, Stephen Maderna and Andy Chakoumakos, and of course yours truly, for an Easter feast on Sunday, April 16.

A call to worship was held Sunday at the Newry Community Church with Pastor Rodney Hanseom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The Message of the Easter Day was: "Believeth thou this?" from Scriptures, St. Mark 16:34-45. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved. But he that believeth not shall be damned." Gil Seeley did a special: "Christ will rise on Easter Day."

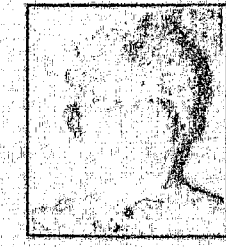

Seven members of the "Newry Bowling Gang" were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week: Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Emily Beers, Bea Lowell, Doris Parent and Olive Anderson. Rena Powers was a guest. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the triples beating Gil by three pins, but Gil was high on the singles beating Karlene by four pins. Of the "Righties," Doris was high on the triples and singles. Karlene had one strike and one spare, Gil had one strike and one spare, Betsy had one strike and three spares, Emily had two spares, Bea, Olive and Doris each had one spare. By the way, Bea and Doris just came back from Florida where they enjoyed the warm weather and no snow... We were happy to see them come back and do some bowling.

Brent Alan Bachelder of the "Club Neopolis Creations" received a letter from the Mayor of Providence, Vincent A. Cianci Jr., complimenting him on all the art work he has done in Providence and around. Stay tuned. Brent is the son of Ras and Karlene Bachelder.

"Briefly..." "The most completely lost of all is the one in which we have not laughed..."

Greetings from Mesa, Ariz., where I am vacationing at my son Ed's home, along with Jennie Bernier of Lovell, Nelda Buck of Lewiston, Lance Tabor of Coventry, Vt., and Tara Green of Texas.

We have admired or been fascinated by the foliage that is different from the Northeast and by the wildlife.

We are making a swing around the state to include the Grand Canyon. So far, the weather has been at least as chilly as what we left behind us.

Many people of New England have seen, read, or heard about the Old Man of the Mountain or the Great Stone Face. It was a work of nature, formed on a perpendicular side of a mountain by some immense rocks, which were thrown together in such a position, when viewed at a proper distance, precisely to resemble the features of a human countenance. There, today, in Franconia Notch in the White Mountains of New Hampshire, the face can still be seen. There is the broad arch of the forehead, the nose with its long bridge, the vast lips, which if it could speak would roll their thunder accents from valley to spacious valley.

Perhaps many of you have read the story, "The Great Stone Face," by Nathaniel Hawthorne. I remember teaching it in literature class for grade seven or eight and found the story fascinating.

But I recall another face, which interested me, I call it "The Old Man of the Sea." I have often wondered why it has never been pictured or written about.

My own introduction to Maine's rocks came several years ago during a cruise in Penobscot Bay to North Haven Island. There, impressive formations known as the Sugar Loaves suddenly emerged into sight. As we came closer, I noticed the weathered granite slabs and broken rocks and at once exclaimed, "There is an old man; look at his face!"

I took this picture and now will share it with you. I have seen it several times and I think it's spectacular.

On Easter Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Strait and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Cogswell and members of their families visited Rena Curtis.

At the Holt Farm the Holt family met for Easter dinner and stayed for the day. There were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt and Jennifer from Windsor; Ann Holt and Colista Morgan, Greenwood; Mr. and Mrs. David Holt and Mary from Norway; and Mr. and Mrs. Leonas Holt, the host and hostess. It was a nice day together.

I was pleased to have a visit from my small friend, Jessica Adams, one day this week.

The Milton Innans were busy with their grandchildren and with other family all week and Easter.

High Street

West Paris by Russell Yates
Howdy, folks. It's a beautiful morning here on High Street this 18th day of April, and I'll try to get my news typed up ready to send. Would have done it yesterday, but some kind of a bug hit both Peggy and me, so we didn't do much of anything but lay low, when not headed for the bathroom.

Clara Whitman called on us Monday. When we lived in Woodstock, near Black Brook, Clara's family lived just across the brook from us. She was a very good friend of Peggy at that time and the whole family have been good friends of ours ever since that time.

Late Monday afternoon, Gary Dyer from Otisfield and his helper were here to make an estimate on repairing our mobile home from the damage done when the big pine tree blew over onto it.

Tuesday evening, we attended the supper and dance at the American Legion Hall in Locke Mills. Charlotte Cole from Locke Mills sang a few songs and Norman Decoto and his wife Betty, Norway, entertained us some. The Richard Felt Orchestra furnished music for dancing, and I danced a little myself and enjoyed it.

On Wednesday morning, we had a thunder shower while we were eating breakfast.

Thursday afternoon, Peggy went to see her doctor and I spent part of the time cutting skirting to replace that damaged by the pine tree that blew over.

Friday, we were in Lewiston for Peggy's appointment with Dr. Rymie. We had lunch at the Chinese Wuk, which is near Rich's in Auburn. We called on a friend of Peggy's who used to work at the Hillsboro Club in Pompano Beach, Fla., at the same time she did.

On Saturday evening we attended the supper and celebration of Rumford Grange's 105th anniversary.

The Chisholm Ski Club had been invited and 23 of their members attended. They were presented the Community Citizenship Award in appreciation for all they had done to help the community. Bernice Sessions Easter was presented with her 50-year Grange Certificate.

We enjoyed Easter dinner with sister Laura Hutchins and her granddaughter Mandy Cobb in East Andover. This was to be a brother and sister gathering, and brother Bryce and wife Barbara were there but another brother and his wife had a previous invitation to their daughter's so weren't with us. We had a very nice dinner and enjoyed visiting in the afternoon.

At this time, Peggy and I wish to thank all of you good people out there for the many sympathy cards sent us. Your kind thoughts are much appreciated.

There will be a dance at the Locke Mills Town Hall on April 29, with music by the Richard Felt Orchestra.

Don't forget the Craft, Food, and White Elephant Sale on May 13 at the West Paris Grange Hall, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. There are still available tables for $3 each. To reserve a table, call Peggy Blake at 674-3872 or Mary Lovejoy at 674-2147.

The Woodstock High School Alumni Banquet will be held at the American Legion Hall on the Gore Road in Locke Mills on June 3, 6 p.m.

Oxford Pomona Grange 2 will meet at Bear Mountain Grange Hall in South Waterford on May 2 for a potluck supper.

The trustees of the West Paris Public Library had their regular monthly meeting on April 12. The officers for the next year are: Peggy Perham, president; Richard Perham, vice president; and Connie Bacon, secretary. Martha Day, Peggy Perham and Connie Bacon were selected to be the book buying committee. The Girl Scouts are going to be raking the debris from the lawn as a community project.

Plans are going forward on the book, food and craft sale to be held on Aug. 12 (rain date Aug. 19). The Friends are assisting on this project and volunteers and new members are always welcome. Along with discarded books from the library, we are asking for donations of used books. A container will be at the library so contributions can be dropped in quickly and easily. Local, out-of-town, or summer guests who would like to display and sell their crafts may bring a table and set up on the lawn. More information will be forthcoming on this fund-raising event.

Friends of the Library member Donna DiConzo continues to have her three- and four-year-olds for their fun times on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. This has been an extremely successful program and has introduced a number of youngsters to the library. Second-graders from Terry Merrill's class will be going to the library with Peggy Perham on Wednesday afternoon, April 26.

The Friends of the Library will meet at 6 p.m. on the 26th. The planting of annual flowers at the library, the summer sale and plans for future projects will be on the agenda.

North Woodstock

by Shane Billings

While walking in the woods behind our house today, I noticed a few remaining patches of snow. How odd to see the remnants of one season as we race rapidly into another.

Lee Billings is back in the driver's seat after a long absence resulting from his illness. The recovery Lee has made since December is remarkable, and it's great to see him driving again.

Mandy McInnis will be leaving for Mexico on the 29th of April, along with several other teenagers, to add a wing to a building. This is Mandy's second trip to Mexico, and once again she will be devoting her time to benefit others.

Bridget Billings and Allyson Jacques graduated from the DARE program at Telstar last Tuesday. Jason Billings, along with five other upperclassmen, received recognition as a DARE role model.

Sarah Chapman spent this week at her mother and father's home, on leave from California where she is learning Chinese. On Saturday, my aunt Louise and I journeyed to the airport in Massachusetts to pick up Sarah. On the way home, I had a great time catching up with my cousin and she even taught me some Chinese; she speaks it very well.

Mary Gray was up for a visit on Tuesday, along with Kyle and Bryan. I paid a visit to the Silvers' house this week.

That's it from North Woodstock.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

The Cub Scouts Pack 155 held their awards program on April 13 at the New Suncook School in Lovell, which I attended. Dale Nelson was Master of Ceremonies, and he did a great job along with the other leaders and young scouts. They had entering of the flags and salute, songs, tricks and games involving the audience as well as members of the troop. There were many awards given out that the young people had worked for and earned. Luke Jackson and Matthew Nelson received their Arrow of Light (which is the highest award in the Cub Scouts) after a ceremony and reading of the story by scout leader Dale Nelson.

Betsy Wilson has fallen and is in Stephens Memorial Hospital with a broken hip bone. I'm sure she would appreciate a call or card from you.

Gladys Plummer has been ill and in the hospital but is some better at this writing.

Sympathy and prayers are going out to the family of Carole Nelson, as her father, John Everett Farrington, passed away last week at the Dixfield Health Care Center. He was formerly of East Andover and Rumford.

Johnny Kahkonen Files from South Paris is visiting with his great-aunt, Frances Grant, and helping on the farm.

Wednesday, April 19, the Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-1865, Hannah F. Richardson Tent 19 met for their monthly meeting with president Leslie Dean presiding. There were 13 members and two guests present. Much business was discussed, and a new member, Heidi Shugars, was initiated into the order. Members -- don't forget the yard sale and bake sale at the East Stoneham Church yard on Saturday, May 6, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to benefit the D.U.V. (Saturdays after that date will be the Church Thrift Shop sales and bake sales. Donations of most anything will be appreciated.) Heather Shugars won the mystery prize. Light refreshments were served after the meeting, and May 20 was set for putting flags on the cemetery graves of veterans and members. Be at the Hillside Cemetery at 10 a.m. if you would like to help. Next meeting will be the Memorial program on May 24th at the K. of P. Hall at 7 p.m. The Maine Department Convention of the D.U.V. will be on June 15-16 this year at the Atrium Inn and Convention Center, Cooks Corner, Brunswick. On May 28th, the Daughters will attend church together and have a Memorial program in front of the Stoneham Church and then march to the cemetery, stopping at the brook on the way to remember those lost at sea. There will be light refreshments served at the vestry afterwards.

Easter Sunrise Services were held at 6 a.m. at the parsonage yard with a good gathering and service, even though it snowed on us during the services. Easter breakfast was served at the East Stoneham Church vestry and regular services were at the North Waterford Church. What a nice day!

Gladys Kilgore has been sick but is feeling better at this writing. Among business acted upon last Tuesday by the Oxford County Commissioners was the agreement signed with Stoneham Rescue Service to provide service to Albany and Mason townships.

Congratulations to Heidi Shugars and Kristen Rolfe for getting on the Honor Roll at their school.

Protecting Your Most Valuable Asset Isn't Child's Play...

There are lots of grown-up reasons to bring your children to a pediatrician for their health and well-being. My professional commitment is to your children's needs - and yours. (Sometimes concerned parents need reassuring, too.)

A pediatrician is specially trained to recognize and respond to the medical, emotional, social and informational uniqueness of youngsters, newborn through adolescence. Children are not just short adults, they are minds-and-bodies-in-progress for whom comfort and understanding is as important as high-tech treatment.

I can't cure the terrible twos, but, together, we can cope with your family's childhood.

Tense Neck Muscles May Cause Headaches

Findings of a new study could challenge the use of common over-the-counter remedies.

BALTIMORE- Doctors may soon tell patients who complain of tension headaches: "Take two massages and call me in the morning."

A study suggests tension headaches start with previously undiscovered tissues that link the brain with the upper neck muscles. If that's right, prescriptions to relax neck muscles could challenge the $2.2 billion headache remedy market.

"This may help get at the problem either with different pharmaceutical treatment or hopefully no pharmaceutical treatment-massage, relaxation therapy, or an ice pack," said Dr. Walker L. Robinson, a neurosurgeon at the University of Maryland Medical Center and one of three doctors who conducted the study. Most over-the-counter pain relievers such as aspirin, ibuprofen and acetaminophen don't stop what's actually causing the pain; they just make it easier to ignore. In a report delivered to a conference of neurosurgeons in Phoenix in February, the doctors said studies on 25 cadavers suggest that when neck muscles contract, they pull on the connective tissue. That tissue in turn, pulls on the highly sensitive dura mater, a thin membrane that covers the brain and spinal cord. Strained nerves in the dura mater appear to cause the headache, they said.

In other words, a tight neck yanks on an area that's full of nerves. Robinson said that when he has had to sever the tissue during surgery, unexplained tension headaches disappear. But he doesn't recommend using a scalpel to cure a headache.

Although there are at least two headache research associations, some doctors don't even believe tension headaches exist. Dr. Keith Campbell, a neurologist at the Mayo Clinic in Minneapolis and a board member of the American Association for the Study of Headache, said he thinks "tension-type" headaches are really just misdiagnosed migraines, which most researchers agree are caused by contracting blood vessels in the head.

Robinson said evidence of tension headaches is all around. "Talk to someone on a bad day after a traffic jam on I-83 and tell that guy there's no such thing as a tension headache," Robinson said.

Helping The Medicine Go Down

Brought to you by:
Bethel Area Health Center

To set the record straight, children's difficulty in taking pills is psychological, not physical. Children old enough to swallow food also have the physical capability to swallow pills and capsules. Those barely-chewed pieces of fudge brownie that somehow arrive in their stomachs are far larger than most medications! Actually, it's the concept of swallowing pills that makes most children gag and choke.

Rather than forcing your child to take pills if he has difficulty doing so, consult your family physician and ask for the medication to be switched from pill to liquid form. Most common medications have a liquid or elixir equivalent. When dispensing liquid medication, it is best to use an actual measuring spoon or syringe (5 ml = 1 tsp.); household teaspoons vary in size, which could result in the administration of an inaccurate amount of medication.

When pills are not available in an alternative form, you may want to try the following ideas to help your child take his medication:

1. Have your child fill his mouth with juice or water, place the pill inside his mouth, tilt his head back and tell him to swallow.

2. When this straightforward method does not work, consider cutting up the pill, if it is small, and adding the pieces to pudding, ice cream, yogurt, applesauce, Jell-O, jam or even a spoonful of sugar. Larger pills can be crushed and then mixed with water or fruit juice into a paste. This could either be swallowed or mixed with other foods. Such alterations of pills are safe, because the stomach and intestines will eventually alter their original form in the same fashion.

(Note: Be cautious about crushing up capsules; some are time-released and should not be altered. Check with your family physician first before performing this "trick".)

The Values of One's Self-Esteem

by Daniel O. Hart, Licensed Professional Counselor

One's self-esteem, your self-image, or how you feel about yourself, has much to do with your mental and physical health. Self-esteem affects the way you live: how you think, act and feel about yourself and others; as well as how successful you are in achieving your life goals. The more positive feelings you have about yourself, the higher or more positive your self-esteem. Hence, the more negative feelings you have about yourself, the lower or more negative your self-esteem.

High Self-Esteem can make you feel:

*Effective
*Productive
*Capable
*Likable/Lovable

Low Self-Esteem can make you feel:

*Ineffective
*Worthless
*Incompetent
*Unliked/Unloved

Factors That Influence Your Self-Esteem

(Your level of self-esteem is based on the unique experiences and personal relationships that have made up your life)

At Home: Relationships with your family members. Experiences with family members from birth right up to the present.

In School: Relationships with classmates, teachers, counselors, and administrators. Experiences with schoolwork, extracurricular activities, athletics, discipline, etc.

On The Job: Relationships with supervisors, co-workers, employees. Experiences with hirings, firings, promotions, and levels of job responsibility as well as your ability to support yourself and your family.

In Your Social Life: Relationships with childhood and adult friends, neighbors, boyfriends, and girlfriends. Experiences with clubs, organizations, athletics and hobbies. In Society: Relationships with members of different cultures, races and religions. Experiences with standards and images created by others- the media, internet systems, etc.

In General: Positive experiences and fulfilling relationships help raise self-esteem. Negative experiences and troubled relationships tend to lower self-esteem. No single event or person can determine one's self-esteem. It develops over time, constantly changing with experience.

Questions & Answers About Self-Esteem

Is it easy to change self-esteem? No. It means taking a hard look at yourself, then changing the things you don't like. This takes time, but the results will be worth the effort. If you have tried but are not making progress, consider seeking help from a qualified counselor.

Does high self-esteem guarantee success? No. But it does guarantee feeling good about yourself and others—no matter what happens.

Can I help others feel better about themselves? Yes. Let your positive attitudes rub off on others by offering encouragement. Help them to open up. Don't put others down. Be patient with their faults and weaknesses (everyone has them).

Does high self-esteem mean self-centeredness? No. It is not egotism or snobishness. These are usually false fronts for feelings of insecurity and low self-esteem. Having high self-esteem is appreciating your uniqueness so you can respond to others in positive and productive ways.

Improve your self-esteem by: Taking pride in your individuality, help yourself, encourage yourself, praise yourself when you deserve it, trust your own judgement and like yourself.

Facts About Hearing & Hearing Aids

brought to you by: Beltone Hearing Aids Center

TYPES OF HEARING LOSS

There are two major types of hearing loss: conductive and sensorineural. Conductive loss is the least common of the two.

In a CONDUCTIVE hearing loss, the outer or middle ear is involved and sound waves are not conducted into the inner ear. Usually conductive hearing problems involve an obstruction in some part of the ear which transmits physical vibrations through air, bone, or tissue.

Fortunately, many conductive hearing problems can often be treated successfully by medical or surgical measures.

SENSORINEURAL, or "nerve" loss, is the type of hearing loss most commonly offset by the use of hearing aids. Nerve loss is generally not correctable through surgery or medicine.

Sensorineural hearing loss is caused by problems with the inner ear and is a result of damage to hair cells, nerve fibers, or both. The most common causes are the aging process, prolonged exposure to noise, or exposure to a sudden, extremely loud noise. However, it can also be caused by high fever, birth defects, and certain drugs.

Persons with sensorineural hearing loss frequently have difficulty understanding speech. They hear the person speaking but cannot understand the words. This problem is usually compounded when background noise is present.

Except in rare cases, there is no cure for sensorineural hearing loss. In fact, the majority of hearing aid wearers have a sensorineural (nerve) hearing loss.

Bicentennial Committee notes:

By JUNE ABBOTT

The Bethel Bicentennial Committee held a meeting at 7 p.m. on April 23 at the home of Dr. Stanley Howe.

It was noted that the treasury was enhanced by the Patriot's Day performance of Jim Rose, presented on Wednesday evening for the benefit of the bicentennial activities. The performance brought all those in attendance to the time and place of the episodes that precipitated the Revolutionary War. His first-person presentation gave the audience the opportunity to experience the range of emotions that must have been felt by those ordinary people taking part in this monumental chain of events. Jim Rose will present similar monologues of an historic nature throughout the year's bicentennial celebration.

The "Bethel Belles and Brides" fashion show will be the next fund raiser for the committee and everyone is encouraged to attend this one-of-a-kind display of Bethel's past on May 20 at 2 p.m. at the Gehring House. This will be an enjoyable way to support the Bicentennial Committee, as all proceeds will benefit its future projects.

The committee would remind all those considering entering the Logo Contest, that all entries must be submitted by May 15.

The next Bethel Bicentennial Committee will meet on May 25 at 7 p.m. at Stan Howe's home at 18 Broad St. These meetings are open to all.

NOTES FROM

Adult Education

Adult Education in the Telstar Region has several courses and programs starting in the next two weeks, including Defensive Driving, Video Editing, Motorcycle Safety and Home Composting.

Maine Driving Dynamics, the defensive driving course sponsored by Maine Highway Safety, will be offered Wednesday, April 26, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at Telstar. The class is worth three points on a Maine driver's license and will be taught by Eddy Naples. The cost is $25.

55-Alive, a defensive driving class for senior citizens, offered by AARP, will be held at the Adult Learning Center at the Bethel Bisbee School on May 2 and 3 from 1 to 4 p.m., with Charles Fairbanks. Preliminary sign-ups are sufficient to insure that the class will be held and there are still places remaining. The cost is $8.

Motorcycle Safety will be held on May 2 and 3 from 6 to 10 p.m. in cooperation with Atlantic Driving School at Telstar. The course is required for those seeking a permit and the fee is $60.

Video Editing is a four-week class to be held at Telstar in the Channel IV studio with Tom Remington. The course will meet on Wednesdays, starting May 3 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. The fee is $20.

A Home Composting workshop will be offered at Telstar on Wednesday, May 3, from 7 to 9 p.m., with Marie Bartlett of Oxford County Recycling and Barbara Murphy of Extension. The session will present up-to-date information on composting techniques and recycling and will allow residents of member towns to purchase composting bins at greatly reduced rates. The session is free.

To register for any of the courses, call the Adult Education office at 824-2780.

Task force notes:

By NATALIE H. TIMBERLAKE

The Bethel Area Task Force will meet again on Sunday, April 30. The 7 p.m. meeting will be at the home of co-facilitator, Rev. Gwyneth Bohr, Chapman Street.

Several committees have projects in process at this time. The Diversity Committee is working on feasibility, format, facilitators, and schedules for workshops in early summer.

The NTL Relations Group is looking forward to a season beginning June 3 and continuing into September this year. One of the late sessions will be a Community Conference 9/15 to 9/29, which will have a special rate for teams of four or more.

The Education Group is represented on the Bethel Bicentennial Committee working on a project for celebrating the development of Bethel over 200 years. Tentatively, the project will feature a monthly topic from a group of 15 topics.

The work of these committees and others will be on the agenda for the April 30 meeting.

News from the

The Bethel Library

The Education Subcommittee of the Bethel Bicentennial Committee is planning some special book displays at the Bethel Library during the coming year. In August, as a way of getting "warmed up" for the bicentennial year, they would like to highlight small town portraits in fiction. Most of the books that will be featured are already in the library's collection, but there are some titles that the library does not own in hardcover: "Peyton Place" by Grace Metalious; "Haircut" by Ring Lardner; "Under Milk Wood" by Dylan Thomas; "Tisha" by Richard Specht; "Wizard of Loneliness" by Nichols; "Stranger in the Kingdom" by Howard Frank Mosher; and "Dakota" by Norris. If anyone in the community has a hardcover copy of any of the above titles and would like to donate it to the library for this special display, please contact Nan Timberlake, chairman for the Education Committee or Betsy Raymond.

Thanks to the following people for recent book donations: Jane Carlson for "In the Place of Fallen Leaves" by Tim Pears; Margaret Joy Tibbets for "Her Excellency: An Oral History of American Women Ambassadors" by Ann Miller Moran; Mary Valentine for "Fifty Days of Solitude" by Doris Grumbach; and Jean Monzo for "The Vision" by Dean Kozintz.
